OPPORTUNITIES

Need to Know uses the news as a springboard into conversations about careers. N2K offers explainers giving context to what's going on in the world (which all end with a list of related careers), highlight live opportunities related to those issues, share advice from career experts and interview GenZers in jobs making an impact – big and small. Check it out here.

“People doing their job” is an instagram page dedicated to... Well, exactly that! It provides you with an insight into what tasks different job roles do on a day to day basis. Check it out here.

Our virtual work experience gives you a taste of just a few of the careers available across the Partnership. Our organisation is a complex puzzle of amazing people, with incredible skills all pulling together to achieve the John Lewis Partnership vision. It's time to experience that for yourself!” Read more here.

Students hoping to start undergraduate courses in 2025 will be able to see the grades that recent successful applicants have achieved at A-level or equivalent. Universities already publish entry requirements for courses but they can be flexible and let students in with lower grades. The Universities and Colleges Admissions Service (UCAS), which is making the changes, said nearly half of applicants were admitted with lower grades. UCAS said the change would help students make “informed, ambitious choices” and give them confidence in their applications. Read more here.

UCAS will remove the application fee for students in receipt of free school meals. Read more here.
